

A Little Under the Weather

Oops! It seems that even elves can catch a little cold sometimes! I wasn't feeling my best last night, so I decided to take a little rest instead of flying back to your home. I hope you understand!

I'm all better now and ready to spread holiday cheer. While I took my break, maybe you can do something nice for someone else today—like making a card or helping out around the house. Santa will love hearing all about your kindness!

Thank you for being such a wonderful friend, and I can't wait to get back to our fun holiday adventures!

Sending warm wishes,
Your Elf
