

Unexpected Adventure

Oh dear! It looks like I got caught up in an unexpected adventure last night! I was so excited to tell Santa about all the fun we've been having that I lost track of time and couldn't make it back in time. But don't worry—I'm still here to sprinkle some holiday magic!

While I'm getting ready for our next round of fun, how about you do something creative today? You could draw a picture, write a story, or even make a festive treat to share with your family. I can't wait to hear all about it!

Sending cheerful wishes,
Your Elf
